The Course

Since the then Governor Sir Dallas Brooks played the first stroke back in 1950, Green Acres has been a hidden treasure known only by a select few. The course itself was designed by Gordon Bernard Oliver who, after designing the original course at Peninsula Country Golf Club, put forward the ambitious plan to build an American style country club just moments from Melbourne's bustling heart. Although much has changed since the original plans were drawn, the course maintains the character that Oliver was eager to create and is a legacy of his passion for tree-lined fairways, doglegs and natural water hazards.

With pure couch fairways and bent greens, the course provides members with both a sanctuary and a challenge. With several holes running alongside Melbourne's iconic Yarra River, the course is surrounded by towering gums that attract abundant wildlife which ensure a pleasant walk, even when the putts are not falling.

The Clubhouse

Green Acres completed an ambitious Clubhouse redevelopment project in 2012 to ensure that the Clubhouse facilities match the quality of the course.

The brand new, purpose-built facility caters perfectly to the needs of members, featuring a comfortable Members Bar, Members Lounge and Terrace all of which are designed to offer superb views over the course and down towards the Yarra River.

The new Clubhouse has been warmly embraced by members as a meeting place to discuss the putts that failed to drop over a quiet drink. With breakfast, lunch and dinner options, the Club has also become known as a comfortable and relaxed environment in which to entertain friends, family and associates.

The Golf Centre

Located in the new Clubhouse, the Green Acres Golf Centre provides members and the surrounding community with the latest golfing equipment from some of the most popular manufacturers. A unique feature of the Golf Centre is the provision of internal hitting bays complete with the latest ball flight computer aided technology which ensures that golfing equipment is individually fitted to suit your game, and that tuition services can be provided year-round regardless of weather conditions.

Green Acres' teaching professionals provide both members and the golfing public with tuition services ranging from private individual lessons to group clinics and junior development programs. Please contact the Golf Centre directly on (03) 9859 2338 to inquire about how we can improve your game.
